- Plans for a Jenkins stand (assuming we're accepted):
 - What demo materials

- Schwag
- Revised Jenkins Flyer

Notes

- Who's coming?
 - rtyler (attendance, organizing)
 - danielbeck (attendance, organizing)
 - kohsuke (attendance, organizing)
 - atong (attendance, organizing)
 - orrc (attendance)
 - fredg (attendance)
- Contributor Summit Notes
 - We need a new moniker for the "Summit" series because the current event plan uses it for another purpose
 - Reuse the "Scalability Summit" / "Workflow Summit" format
 - A day of unconference with some broad theme
 - Target attendee: 20-40 people
 - Day divided into a fixed time slots and 1-2 tracks
 - The first few sessions are pre-announced to get the juice flowing
 - The rest of the sessions are decided on the fly by people with postit notes
 - Should be interesting enough for serious users that I expect some will come just for this.
 - Pick a date: Friday vs Monday
 - Meetup.com has a feature that helps us nail this down
 - Needs to be decided soon to let people book travel soon
 - Pick a theme
 - User experience?
 - Jenkins as Code? (pipeline as code, deploy Jenkins via chef/puppet, Job DSL, ...)
 - Jenkins 2.0?
- After-hour events notes
 - tyler: Cafe Leroy friday before beer event?
 - fred: pre-planned dinner on Saturday night would be ideal
 - alyssa: set up a meetup to get RSVPs to make a reservation in advance (according to orrc about 15-20 attend. should add ~5 people in case people bring a friend)
- Stand planning
 - Demo Materials
 - monitors
 - at least one dedicated PC (with wireless) for demos
 - canned demos around Jenkins 2.0 work?
 - "new things that people don't know"
 - fred: maybe a little showreel (workflow, new UI, etc)
 - a demo presentation, or interactive version of the flyer
 - use-case driven points on the website (domain specific destination pages, e.g. mobile development)
 - eitsch: hi there, if you want to be able to cater to different "personas" of jenkins users ... you could prepare some sd-cards-images for a raspberry pi and switch around to show a running jenkins on monitor at stand
 - eitsch: i definitely liked the stickers more which were more into the badass type ;) like the ninja and the je[di]nkins master ... for the t-shirts you might be able to blend in the upcoming 2016 fosdem logo (if they are open to letting you use it)
- chris: people are usually coming to the stand asking for help, stickers and t-shirts
- Schwag
 - stickers (few thousand minimum)
 - t-shirts always in high demand (more than 30, as many as we can sell)
 - t-shirts maybe also with blended 2016 fosdem logo (need to check if possible)
 - buttons (small round badges) with Jenkins headshot / weather symbols / blue balls etc...
 - tyler: buttons for attendees: blue button + happy jenkins, red button + angry jenkins would be fun
 - Jenkins bobble-heads?
- Flyer
 - perhaps this year we create little post-cards with permalinks to destination pages on the site "want to do mobile: go here", etc. So stand visitors would have something tangible to remember where to find more information
 - more resilient to being out of date by the next time we have a conference than the flyer
 - fredg: flyer is a bonus not a necessity
 - 18:31 < fredg02> how about a set of "collectible" domain specific cards (Android, Java, Ruby, PHP, ...)
- Other
 - Language-spoken type buttons for people manning the stand (e.g. Chris would have a Scottish flag, English flag and German flag buttons)
