

secondary-timestamper-plugin

Plugin Information

View secondary timestamper on the plugin site for more information.

This plugin enables the user to display a second timestamp in the build history of a job. This is very helpful in case you have users and slaves in different timezones. The timestamp of the second timezone will be set as a description to the job runs.

The timezone for the second timestamp can be configured in the job configuration.